Fighting the Waves

A voyage through time
an infinite trip
Seeking a destination unknown

A lifetime of work pushing the oar
struggling to reach the port

Mortals we are with faith in our dreams sailing our fragile craft

Each hoping to bring the others aboard
a little closer to our home

In the waters below
a reflection we see
A fleeting image of our lives

Still we push on with vigor and strength
a glimmer of hope sparks our mind

We may never see the lights of home
or even the crystal shores

But we shout with joy and with frightened relief as we conquer each wave

Give Us A Second ! !

On May 14, 1968, the citizens of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, bonded together to pledge $1,195,000 to begin a building program for a central high school.

On August 23, 1969, the Masonic Fraternity completed the construction of Pocahontas County High School.

In the fall of 1970, the doors opened to welcome and unite the former Marlinton, Green Bank, and Hillsboro High Schools. For twenty - one years, P.C.H.S. staff have created futures for the young adults of Pocahontas County.

Showing his school spirit, Richard Hill goes all out to help the seniors win Maroon and Gold Day.

We're Back!

After a long summer of hard work from the Huttonsville Correctional Center inmates, PCHS is looking its best. Doing his part in keeping our high school nice and clean is junior Scottie Arbaugh during his custodial class.

On their first day back, sophomores Betsy Akers, Traci Douglas, Sarah Lehman, Doria Groves, and junior Kim Shinaberry, are caught by the camera discussing their "much too short" summer.

Showing his coordination with a basketball is junior Tim Coughlin, as sophomore Debbie Tinney looks on in amazement.

In his homeroom, senior Richard Barb writes down his schedule and locker combination to make the first few days of school easier.

“Oh, My Gosh! I can't believe it!” is what Jenny Blankenship, senior, is saying at half-time of the Girls Basketball game against Tucker County!

STUDENT LIFE

Seniors Juli Beckwith and Junior Hill say their goodbyes before they board the buses to go home.

"BEAT THE CLOCK!"

Twenty-one homecomings have come and gone since Marlinton, Hillsboro, and Green Bank merged into one school-Pocahontas County High.

On October 12, our twenty-first annual Homecoming was held at 7 p.m. at Warrior Stadium.

The Warriors launched from the fieldhouse, through the spirit hoop with "We Just Can't Hide That Warrior Pride," as the Homecoming theme. Following them were their opponents, the Tygarts Valley Bulldogs.

Showing good defense, the Warriors held their ground in the first quarter, which ended with a tied score of zero.

In the second quarter the Bulldogs scored six.

Finally, the long-awaited halftime festivities began. As the band played "You Are So Beautiful," the Homecoming Court made their appearance, complete with umbrellas for the pouring rain. Freshman attendant and escort were Angela Waybright and Brian Robinson. Sophomore attendant was Amanda Irvine with escort Jamie Burke; juniors were Dawnn McLaughlin and Michael Taylor; and Teresa Mick and J.P. Duncan represented the senior class.

Waiting anxiously were the Homecoming Queen candidates, Kelley Gordon, Jody Morgan, and Cynthia Burke, and the King candidates, P.C. Dean, Bill Carpenter, and Travis Workman.

At last, the crowning of the 1990 Homecoming King and Queen took place. Laura Grimes honored Cindi Burke and Bill Carpenter by stepping down from her reign as Homecoming Queen 1989.

During the third and fourth quarters the Bulldogs scored 13, while Richard Lane scored 6 points for the Warriors. The game ended with a score of 20-6, in favor of the Bulldogs.

Immediately following the game, the Homecoming Dance was held in the gymnasium, with DJ Jeff Hefner.

Current students and teachers, along with alumni, mingled, danced, and reminisced, making Homecoming 1990 an enjoyable and treasurable experience, despite the rain and the loss of the game.

During the Homecoming game, the Warrior team try for a first down against the Tygarts Valley Bulldogs

"Just Can't Hide That Warrior Pride!"

Although dressed like a little girl on "Little Boy, Little Girl Day," Mr. Wade still has authority to approve notes.

Let's Go, Warriors! "We Just Can't Hide That Warrior Pride!" This was the theme for this year's Spirit Week.

October 10-12 we elevated the spirit in the school. We had competition between the classes through dressing up and door decorations. Unfortunately, the powderpuff football game scheduled for Friday afternoon had to be delayed because of rainy weather.

On Wednesday, "Mock Teacher Day," some members of the student body showed their spirit by dressing up as the teacher they thought was most unique. The senior class came out on top.

That night there was a bonfire and, despite the rainy weather, there was a great turnout! Each class prepared and presented a skit and yell. The cheerleaders performed a dance and kept the crowd motivated.

Thursday resembled kindergarten classes instead of high school, as the students kicked in "Little Boy, Little Girl Day." Many students participated, but the seniors, again, came out on top.

Friday was the big day! This was the last day for the other classes to catch up to the seniors. This day was Maroon and Gold — the Mighty Warrior colors! The seniors made a clean sweep by nearly everyone in their class dressing up! This led to the seniors' victory of Spirit Week. This was also the day for the door decorating to be judged, which the juniors won!

Later in the day, the cheerleaders held a pep-rally. They brought out the spirit of the crowd and psyched up the football guys. The classes at this time joined together as one and cheered on the Warriors.

Looking cute and comfortable is sophomore Christie Rose on "Little Boy, Little Girl Day."

On Friday, the last day of Spirit Week, the student body tried to get "the wave" started during the pep rally.

Showing all their spirit at the bonfire are seniors Alisha Jesselli, Kelley Gordon, Melissa Mick, Jeanette Canada, and Jody Morgan.

TIME OF YOUR LIFE

Freshening up for the second half of the school day is senior Jackie Gibson at the end of her lunch shift.

During his lunch shift, senior Mike Wolfe goes to the salad bar for the nutritious variety of food prepared by the cooks.

During Spirit Week, senior Mathew Taylor makes a fashion statement with his gray cowboy boots and his white pants.

On "Little Boy and Girl Day" during Spirit Week, Sean Mickle, sophomore, and David Dilley, David Smith, and Damian Elliot, juniors, enjoy playing "dressup."

To help the seniors win Spirit Week, Jennifer Terry dressed up as Ms. Blankenship, the school librarian, on "Mock Teacher Day."

ONE STEP AHEAD FOR STYLE

This was the year for earth tones and bright colors. Those who dared to be different wore rolled-up baggy beach pants. A new fad was baggy silky slacks with slits up the legs.

T-shirts were popular, as always. They were mainly from three categories - - skateboarding, "You Can't Touch This!," and Bart Simpson's "Don't Have a Cow, Man!"

Sweaters were composed of earth-toned cardigans and bright, bold-colored sweaters with fringe.

For shoes, the hot brands seemed to be the Reebok pumps, Nike Air, L.A. Gear, Dexter, British Knights, Vision, Street Wear, Magic Johnson, and the original Chipewas.

Hair styles varied, with most girls having short cuts, while guys' styles ranged from very short cuts to ponytails!

Freshman Kim Farmer is happy as she adds the finishing touches to her fashionable cardigan and Reeboks.

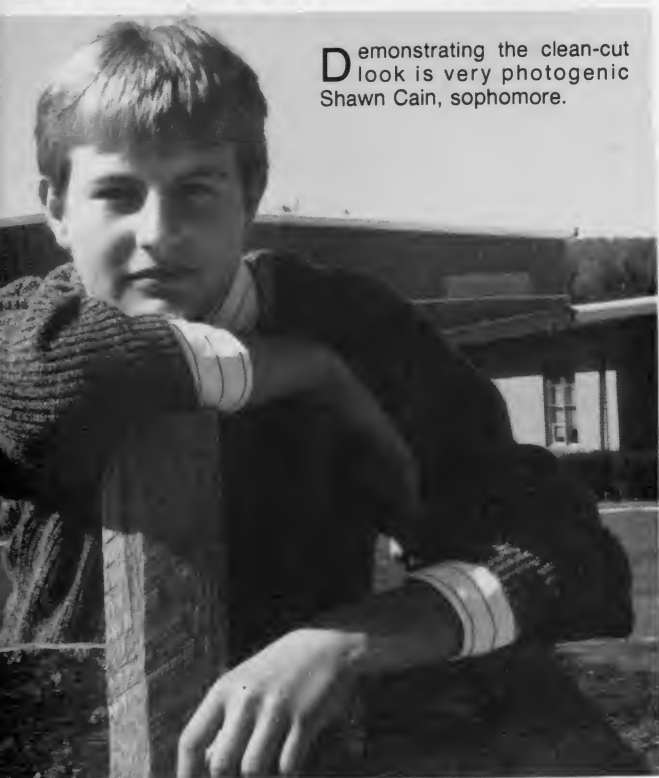

Solid baggins and brightly colored skirts were one fad, as shown by Jennifer Blankenship.

freshman Martin McGreal shows his brotherly love, while wearing Bugle Boy pants and sweater, toward his sister, senior Katie McGreal, in her coruoy skirt and cable-knit sweat-Junior Brad Dunz appears to be well relaxed as he models his comfortable dress slacks and two-toned loafers.

Demonstrating the clean-cut look is very photogenic Shawn Cain, sophomore.

You can't miss senior Matthew McKean with his original Bugle Boy shirt, neon British Knights, and his outrageous Baggy Beach Pants.

"These are THE only shoes to wear!" exclaims senior Susan Rataiczak while showing off her new saddle shoes.

CHOW TIME

Lunch is the favorite time of the day for most students. They either eat cafeteria food, pack their lunch, or buy snacks at school.

Students who pack their lunch usually bring sandwiches, candy bars, and pop. These are foods you can't buy in the concession stand. Students who eat snacks still have their meal fixed for them. After eating, they go to one of the common hangouts outside, in the hallways, or in the gym. Eventhough lunch seems short, there's still enough time to eat and "catch up on the gossip."

Performing a balancing act, Dottie Malcom, junior, concentrates on adding a finishing touch to her nutritious meal. She needs this to complete her busy day.

On her first day back to school, senior Heather McGee eats her lunch outside, where she enjoys the summer weather.

Unaware of what's going on around him, junior John Bennett quickly eats his lunch.

During first lunch shift, juniors Missy Jordan and Ann Dilley discuss the upcoming events in school.

Look at that face! Senior Harriet Holley seems to enjoy eating her lunch outside.

Hidden Courage

A cool morning breeze casts a chill on the young guard
His eyes shift, back and forth, uneasily across the murky skyline where ominous clouds float unchanged by the brewing storm of war.

There is a gleam in his eye
A sign of the hidden courage which helps him face the lonely expanses of desert and the unseen foes lying within them.

Yet he knows there is no glory in war only death and duty.
But he accepts this terrible price of freedom
A consequence which lays unrelenting in the back of his mind.

He suppresses the extraneous thoughts and buries them deep inside, leaving only a disciplined mind concentrating on the rigorous work of war.

But each night, as he lies alone and silent in the midnight darkness of his tent, he prays - a somber prayer for the family he left tearfully behind.

And as he sleeps, the fleeting phantoms of night come filling his restless mind.
Pacifying his lonesome soul comforting his aching heart, and for one brief moment, there is peace.

The Junior/Senior Prom of 1991 was a special and memorable occasion in the lives of everyone attending. The entire day was filled with rushing, "priming," and excitement before the prom was on its way.

"If Wishes Came True" was the theme for the prom, which was held at Silver Creek, giving the attendees a positive outlook on the night. The setting consisted of balloon decorations with aqua, pink, and silver as the colors.

The evening began with a romantic dinner prepared by the chefs at the Resort. Junior class president Dana Cutlip and senior class president Matthew McKean welcomed everyone with a few brief words.

Following dinner, everyone gathered on the dance floor for a fun-filled evening of music and excitement, accompanied by close friends, dates, and acquaintances.

A post-prom party was held after the dance with activities such as swimming, eating, miniature golf tournaments, dancing contests, and breakfast the following morning.

As the prom came to an end, everyone departed, weary and pleased that their wishes had indeed come true!

Mathew Taylor and Kelley Gordon seem to enjoy the honor of being Prom King and Queen.

Taking a break from the dancing, juniors Mark King and Missy Grimes seem to be really happy about their title of junior attendants.

Having fun can be hard work, or at least that seems to be what junior Cameron Barkley and his date, freshman Jennifer Moore, are thinking.

Celebration

Enjoying their meal, juniors Stephanie Gibson, Rachel Broyles, and Bo Casteel have a quiet conversation among themselves.

Before the dance began, many of the guests enjoyed a delicious meal in a romantic setting.

After dinner, Mike Kelley seems to be checking to make sure everything is "on the clock" for junior Christine Baxter.

"Let's Party!" seems to be what senior Nathan Gibson is saying, and fellow classman J.P. Duncan seems to agree completely, while senior Mark Mospan tries to sneak off.

Putting out a fast dance, senior Brian Hipes and sophomore Holly Ryder watch the others on the dance floor.

Taking a leisurely moment to just sit and chat, juniors Lewis Mullenax and Cindy Horner seem to be amused about something happening at a nearby table.

Seemingly very happy, senior Travis Workman and junior Kristi Miller make a very nice-looking couple.

Freshman Angela Waybright giggles as senior Tim Mortimer whispers "sweet nothings."

Junior Stephanie Gibson has a puzzled look while listening to Donald Cook and Darlene Burgess' conversation.

Practice makes perfect - at least that's what these students think as they practice for the miniature golf tournament at the Post-Prom Party.

HAMMER TIME!

Come on, baby, Let's do the twist!

Everybody loved the dances, especially a new semi-formal, Christmas Ball. The dance was sponsored by the Journalism class on December 7.

A lot of people enjoyed the dances after basketball games, particularly a winning game. These dances were held to raise money for different classes and organizations.

Deep in thought is senior Bill Carpenter as junior Hope Kinison sits very happily in his arms, as they wait for the next slow dance.

Closeness is the key to slow dancing for Cheryl Green and Chris McNeel at the Christmas Dance.

"This is fun and easy," is the expression on junior Cameron Barkley's face as he holds sophomore Angie Coleman in his arms.

"Is this safe?" seems to be the question on Stacey Oliver's mind as she picks up some Christmas punch.

Seeing eye to eye are senior Melissa Mick and her date John Riffe as they dance the night away.

ACADEMICS

College classes were offered in the PCHS schedule, and Tina Reigel, senior, finds that they require a great deal of concentration as she catches up on her College Trig. homework.

Demonstrating a true artist's work is senior Kevin McCa

Working hard on his biology workbook is sophomore Hank Wingo.

Wrap it up!!

Help Me! The Instructional Resource Center offers supportive services to students who require extra help in vocational and academically related work. Mrs. Linda Beverage, Instructional Resource Center Coordinator, has been teaching at PCHS for 14 years. She also teaches adult courses.

Services offered through the learning center include diagnoses of reading and math levels, which could lead to planning and administering a remedial program to suit the individual's need. The learning center also assists vocational and classroom instructors when modification of instructional materials or tests is needed. It offers tutoring for individuals and small groups when needed upon advisement from the classroom teacher.

The Instructional Center also provides pre- and post-testing, materials, and instruction for those students who wish to work on a GED.

The center and its materials are available to the students and teachers throughout the school day.

Mrs. Sue Shupe teaches Alternative Learning. This was developed to help students who have dropped out of school and returned and for those who aren't doing well in regular classes. Mrs. Shupe teaches employee ability skills and required classes for graduation.

During 5th period in the Learning Center, sophomore Andy Grimes and freshman Travis Bailey work on their assignments.

"Time Flies When You Are Having Fun!"

Special Education classes offer students with learning disabilities the opportunity to learn the basic skills needed in everyday life. The program is designed to teach students Math, English, Home Economics, Social Studies, and Science and allow them to work at a pace suitable for themselves.

Students involved in the Special Education Program are rewarded for their work through trips to various places, made possible by their teachers Mrs. Taylor and Mr. Herold.

The Enrichment classes at P.C.H.S. are designed for students to pursue many independent projects or courses of study at an accelerated pace. Projects this year included research papers on topics such as the Civil War and the Berlin Wall.

Mrs. Vance encourages her students to get involved in advanced courses and prepare for college.

Getting her supplies is Brenda Powers, sophomore, in Mrs. Taylor's 3rd period Home Economics class.

After cooking in Mrs. Taylor's Home Economics class, junior Teresa Wilfong put away all of the appliances she used.

Body Building Time!

Get dressed! Participate!" PCHS offers physical education for the beginners and advanced students. The students not only participate in gym class, they also learn about bodies and minds during health class.

Sportsmanship plays a big part in any activity. Both of our gym teachers teach this. Mr. Mike Wilburn teaches two physical education classes, one advanced class, and three health classes. Mrs. Reta Rose stays quite busy by teaching five physical education classes and one health class.

They both teach a variety of sports, ranging from basketball to gymnastics. The students get a taste of many different activities.

"I've got it! I've got it!" yells sophomore Chris Matheny during his fifth period gym class. Watching to see if he hits the ball are junior James Lambert, senior Shane Alikakos, and sophomore Stephen Taylor.

"Show your work!" Mr. Lambert tells Kim Shinaberry, junior, during Algebra I.

Freshman Chad Peck works hard on finishing the onion peel lab in Biology class, while sophomore Jamie Burke seems to have something else on his mind.

MATH + SCIENCE = TIME + EFFORT

"Good Grief!" "What's the matter?" Every day it's almost impossible to get past all the people coming and going in the math wing. Why?

It's easy to explain. There were 356 math students. Those students kept the three math instructors busy teaching seven math courses - classes in three levels of Algebra; Geometry; Pre-Calculus; Consumer Math; and Tutorial Math.

Mrs. McGee was head of the math department, with Mr. Tupper and Mr. Lambert following in her footsteps.

"Ooh, yuck! What is that horrid smell?" "It's probably formaldehyde from the Biology classes. They're dissecting frogs today!"

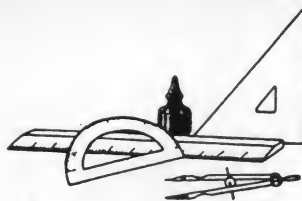

Mrs. Sharpes kept everything in order for Mrs. Burns and newcomer Ms. Westfall. Ms. Westfall taught five Physical Science classes and one Biology, while Mrs. Sharpes taught the remaining Biology classes and a Science Seminar class. Mrs. Burns taught Chemistry, A.P. Chemistry, Honors Physical Science, and Physics.

For those interested in nature, medicine, and other science-related careers, the science department was the place to be.

Identifying chemical and physical changes by heating salt during chemistry class are juniors Aracoma Sapanski and Lewis Mullenax.

Library Aide Amy Burks, junior, looks up an article for a fellow student.

During the Book Fair in the library, junior Jim Freimark takes time to leaf through a magazine.

Taking time to read the newspaper during second lunch shift is English instructor, Mr. Alderman.

Taking advantage of the fact that Mrs. Keller is in her storage closet, freshmen Teresa Tracy, Teresa Mullenax, Sharon Moore, Leslie Lambert, Amy Widney, Jennifer Moore, and Joanna Burt-Kinderman all try to talk at once.

As The World Turns . . .

Learning! When you're in a course of Social Studies, you learn! You learn about what's happened in the past and what's happening now in the economy.

The Social Studies staff is headed by Mr. Stewart, who teaches World Cultures, Economics, and Psychology. Mrs. Keller teaches American History, World Cultures, Economics, and a Radio elective. Mr. Rexrode teaches American History and World Cultures.

Students can find help for all courses in the library. The librarian, Ms. Blankenship, also teaches photography and develops film in the dark-room adjacent to the library.

The library is kept neat and orderly. It is open to all students and faculty. It has a great variety of resources. The library can be a lot of help if used in the correct way.

Working on homework, sophomores Johnny Grimes and Alice Defibaugh use the quietness of the library.

Trying to reason with Mrs. Keller during American History is freshman Martin McGreal. Ry Mitchem and Kurt Heinemann, freshmen, listen intently.↑

Finding Economics amusing is junior Angie McLaughlin, and working seriously are Carol Roberts and Susan Goldizen.↑

After finishing their work in Mrs. Keller's American History class, freshmen Scott Reigel, Mel Anderson, Cynthia Broce, and Billy Jack relax and talk about the upcoming weekend.↑

Leaders of Learning!

Our faculty does an exceptional job. They each have their own unique way of teaching their subject.

We have 5 teachers with Bachelors degrees, 11 teachers with Bachelors degrees + 15 hours, 1 teacher with a Masters, 3 with Masters + 15, 15 with Masters + 30, and 2 with Doctorate degrees.

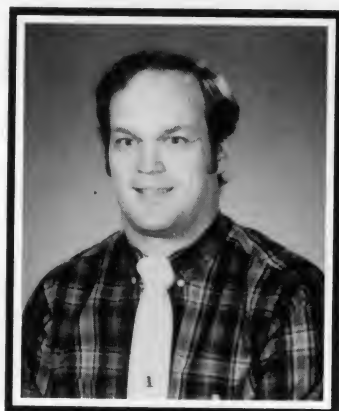

As we go through life, we learn to express ourselves with intelligence. This we have to thank our teachers for.

"I hope this play goes well," Damian Ell junior, thinks as he calls a play to his teammates.

TIME OUT!

The 1990 football season began with two new coaches, Head Coach Delmas Barb and offensive and defensive coach Jerry Buzzard. Each tried his best to encourage the team to keep their spirits up and standards high.

Each football player had a job to do, putting forth effort needed to fulfill their goals.

Richard Lane, senior, led the team with the most touchdowns as well as the most rushing yards. Following him closely were Shawn Bosley, sophomore, and Mark King, junior.

The year ended with a disappointing 0-10 record, but, even though their season wasn't highly successful, their team effort was appreciated.

Swish! That's what you heard a lot at every varsity girls' basketball game. The girls ended the season with a total average of 58.4 points per game. They averaged 53% on the free throw line, which helped the team considerably. The ladies intimidated their opponents on the court with an average of 16 steals a game.

The Lady Warriors ended their season with a 7 and 12 record. The girls were coached by Mrs. Shupe, who said she was "really proud of the girls and their accomplishments this year."

The Lady Warriors won the draw in the sectional tournament and played Greenbrier West, the winner of the first round at home. Unfortunately, the ladies were defeated by the Cavaliers. Chosen from Pocahontas to be on the All-Tournament team were Kelley Gordon and Teresa Mick.

The action is on the floor, but the Coach Sheets are all into it.

PRIME TIME!

Fight, Fight, Fight! The 1990-91 Warrior basketball team had an outstanding season. Even though they had to replace four starters from the 1989-90 team, the players surprised the crowd with all the talent, enthusiasm, and teamwork displayed.

The Warriors won their first game against Nicholas Co. 79-69 and continued to do a wonderful job by winning the Dick Gunnoe Tournament at Greenbrier East.

One of the greatest highlights of the Warriors' season was their overtime win against undefeated Webster Co. 63-62. While the Warriors were averaging 70 pts., they were holding their opponents to 66

pts. per game. In the New River Valley Conference-Double A, the Warriors had a 9-3 record, with an overall seasonal record of 14-8.

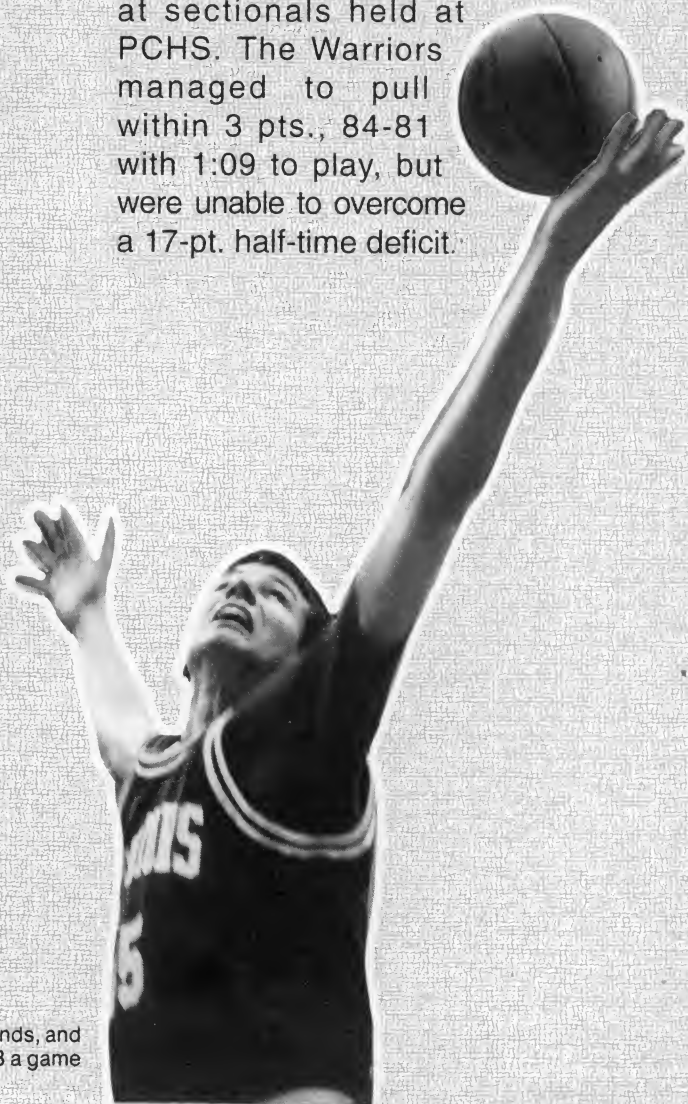

Some individual statistical highs were recorded by Rudy Gelis, 6' 8" center, averaging 16 pts., 13 rebounds, and shooting 58 percent from the floor. Bill Carpenter averaged 11 pts., 5 rebounds, and 5 assists. Brian Beverage averaged 13 pts. and shot 52 percent from the three-pt. line.

The season ended with a loss of 95-85 to Midland Trail at sectionals held at PCHS. The Warriors managed to pull within 3 pts., 84-81 with 1:09 to play, but were unable to overcome a 17-pt. half-time deficit.

Close games require intensity. Senior captain Bill Carpenter displays this quality as he grabs one of his six rebounds in the Warriors' 65-53 overtime win against Richwood.

Forty-inch arms means lots of rebounds, and 6'8" center Rudy Gelis averaged 13 a game for the Warriors.

Tighten up, Warriors! Half-time the Warriors were behind during Homecoming, but cheerleaders Missy Grimes, Holly Ryder, Missy Hefner, and Philissa Shafer kept smiling in hopes of winning.

All smiles! Excited about the Homecoming game are Christie Rose, Hollie McDaniels, and Tina Palmer, captain.

Encouraging the crowd is one of the responsibilities of a cheerleader. Cindi Burke, captain, is dancing to the song "Come Unto Me" during half-time.

A Time to Fight . . . It's Time to Win . . .

We've got spirit! The Varsity Cheerleaders work hard all year to become the best they can be.

Cheerleaders are made of spirit, enthusiasm, talent, and hard work. When August 1 rolls around, they start traveling to school to get ready for football season.

Warm, cold, rain, or shine, the cheerleaders were out every Friday night to cheer on the football team. Even though the season didn't go as well as hoped, the guys did their best and the cheerleaders kept showing their spirit.

Football season was soon over, but basketball season was right around the corner. New cheers to learn and stunts to get together. This year's basketball season looked very promising! The cheerleaders showed their spirit with dances at half-time and impressive stunts during timeouts.

Basketball season was extremely hectic and chaotic, not only for the players but also for the cheerleaders. In addition to practicing during the week, they had two and sometimes three games a week. Many times the cheerleaders, along with their sponsor, Ms. Kathy Westfall, would travel long distances and get home late.

The cheerleaders even practiced on Saturdays to be ready for competition on March 2.

I 990-1991 Varsity Cheerleaders are: Teresa Mick, Missy Grimes, Hollie McDaniels, Christie Rose, Philissa Shafer, Holly Ryder, Cindi Burke, and Tina Palmer, captains, Missy Hefner, Dawn Rodriguez, and Amanda Irvine.

"Sink it!" the cheerleaders yell as they nervously await a foul shot.

Hustle!! Hustle!! Hustling to burn the volleyball is junior Amy Workman, while looking on with anticipation is sophomore Lauri Hess.

Volleyball

Varsity
J.V.

Bump! Set! Spike! All combinations of the game volleyball. Volleyball was a new sport played by Pocahontas county girls. The girls were coached by Mrs. Ruth Bland.

There was a varsity and J.V. team. The varsity girls were 29 for the season, and J.V. were 2 and 12, with one tie. The girls said they enjoyed the new sport and were glad that they finally got to have a volleyball team.

There were tryouts for a week. At the end of the week, a varsity and J. V. team were picked. Nobody was cut because Mrs. Bland was so thrilled and proud of the effort and enthusiasm shown by all the girls.

Everyone is now aware of power volleyball and waiting for next season to come. So if you missed this year's season, be sure to catch it next winter.

Time Out! Listening intently to what Coach Bland is saying during a time-out are Missy Jordan, junior, Kim Farmer, and Kristi Matheny, freshmen.

Bump! One of the main hits in volleyball is demonstrated by Joanna Burt-Kinderman in a home volleyball game.

Laura Hefner pulls away from her competitors. She broke the school record in the open 800.

Pushing herself to the finish line to end the 4X800 meter relay is senior Katie McGreal.

The boys 4X800 consists of senior Matt McKear, Charlie Cole and Cameron Barkley, and freshman Johnson. Their state time was 9:06.

The girls 4X800 state time was 11:18.72, and the team made up of senior Katie McGreal and freshmen Kriethen, Laura Hefner, and Amy Widney.

The girls 4X400 also went to state and had a time of 4:36, their best of the year. Team members include freshman Jennifer Moore, seniors Heather McGee and Katie McGreal, and sophomore Amy Peacock.

Exerting as much energy as he can, senior Brian Hipes completes his long jump with skill.

Brother and sister, Cameron and Amy Barkley, show "togetherness" even on the track.

The girls 4X200 team consists of senior Heather McGee, junior Dawn Rodriguez, and sophomores Hollie McDaniels and Amy Peacock.

Robert Gray demonstrates the throw of the discus.

Every Second Counts!

Run like the wind" is how the 1991 track teams performed this season. For the first time in three years, the first meet wasn't snowed out. The season's weather was very good, and it showed in the running. At the Independence Meet, the girls team ran fast — breaking season and meet records. The team was awarded a second place trophy.

The efforts in the regional meet enabled many competitors to advance to the State level. The girls team qualified in the 4x800, 4x400, and 4x200m relays. Competing individually were Kristi Matheny in the open 1600 and Laura Hefner in the 3200 and 800 opens. Laura, in the 800, broke her own record at 2:32. The boys qualified in the 4x800 relay, and Cameron Barkley ran in the open 800 and 1600. Cameron set school records in the 3200 (10:21.9) and 1600 (4:35.3) this season.

The PCHS Majorettes are: Kristi Miller (feature twirler), Lori Martin (Drum major), Laura Payne, Leslie Hollandsworth, Cynthia Broce, Lisa Sharp (Head), Tawnya Terry, Sarah Burt-Kinderman, and Teresa Tracy.

Charlie Cole, junior, adds unique sound to the Warrior Band while playing his tenor sax in the 1990 Christmas Concert.

Saxophone players Laura Payne, Sarah Burt-Kinderman, Matthew McKean, and Lisa Sharp tune each note while performing in the 1990 Christmas Concert.

SOUNDS OF THE TIME . . .

The PCHS Band started out the year in a very aggressive manner with Band Camp, which was held August 12-16 at the 4-H Camp in Thornwood. The band practiced long and hard on the music and field show for the upcoming school year.

The band performed at many home and a few away football games. The band attended the Treasure Mountain Festival in Franklin and walked away with second place in the parade competition. In the Mountain State Forest Festival at Elkins they performed in the parade and field competition. The band received fourth place in both, and the majorettes received second in the parade.

The band and choir also performed their annual Christmas Concert for the parents and students. To enable the band to compete during the next school year, they went to the annual band ratings in Buchannon in April. They were very successful in the ratings. We tip our hats to the 1990-91 Warrior Band!

Don't be deceived! Dawn Rodriguez, junior, is playing the oboe, not the clarinet! Teresa Mick, senior, is the one playing the clarinet in 1990 Christmas Concert.

"Hey, Hey, Goodbye!"

"We're Outta Here!" Senioritis hit some of the seniors sooner than others. For some the count down began as early as September 2! A lot of this year's seniors got their pictures taken out of school. One thing was certain - this class had different ideas and tastes.

Soon Cap and Gown pictures had to be taken. This event took place April 24 and just made the seniors more anxious for the final day to come.

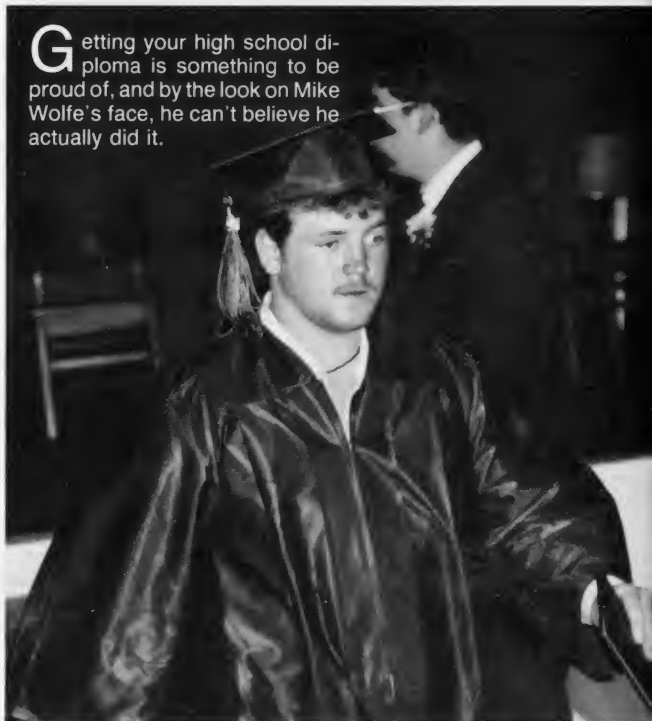

On May 4, followed the '91's idea and prom back to Creek. It was a cess and a rable night for

Yum! Yum! sponsors held a Luncheon on The food was the company Graduation was the morning of May 30. After practice, some of the seniors loaded onto the bus and headed toward the Inn at Snowshoe for a fun-filled day with the friends they had made during their last four years.

Graduation was finally here! The prelude and processional were played by Mrs. Linda VanReenen. Next, Jennifer Blakenship gave the invocation. The address of welcome was given by Michelle Warner. Jody Morgan recited a poem. The song "Friends" was sung by Susan Gainer and April Wanless. Memories of the past four years were recalled by Kelley Gordon, Cynthia Burke, Heather McGee, and Julie Beckwith. Remarks from the Board of Education were delivered by Bruce McKean, and a Student Address was given by Matthew McKean. John Rose presented the class for diplomas. Finally the diplomas were given out by Mr. Vance and Mr. Wade. William Carpenter gave an address of Appreciation, and Harriet Holley gave the benediction. Then the parties began!

Getting your high school diploma is something to be proud of, and by the look on Mike Wolfe's face, he can't believe he actually did it.

After Graduation Tina Reigel and Elbert Sharpe don't seem to believe that they actually did it.

Before the Graduation Ceremony, these seniors anxiously stand outside and have one last group chat with their friends.

Receiving his diploma, Richard Barb seems to be a bit nervous, or maybe he's doing a good job of concealing his excitement.
